Article number: 178550T3

The CimCase PRO T3 empty case is the ideal basis for a customized tool kit for professional use. Developed for electricians and industrial electricians, the PRO series impresses with its robust construction, well-thought-out interior organization, and high suitability for everyday use on construction sites or in industrial plants.

The sturdy case shell offers generous storage space for hand tools, measuring devices, or power tools. At the same time, the case remains compact and easy to transport ideal for daily mobile use. Inside, three tool panels with pocket holders ensure flexible and clear organization. One of the panels is additionally equipped with a neoprene pocket for the protected storage of a spirit level. The pockets allow quick access to frequently used tools and offer variable configuration options. Thanks to the modular system, the tool panels can be exchanged or individually equipped as required. This allows the case to be optimally adapted to different working days or areas of application. The equipment also includes a TSA combination lock, a labeling field, and a spring-loaded handle for comfortable carrying.

The CimCase PRO T3 is the perfect solution for anyone looking for a flexible, robust, and professionally organized base for their personal tool equipment.
